

TAKING THE MIDEAR AND POST TEST

BrightFish Reading provides three administrations of the Adaptive Cloze test: the pre-test, midyear and post-test. Once a testing schedule begins, the student story tile will be locked until the test is complete. For each test, the system will start at the student's assigned grade level and then present a series of passages (up to 4) to find the student's independent and instructional reading levels.

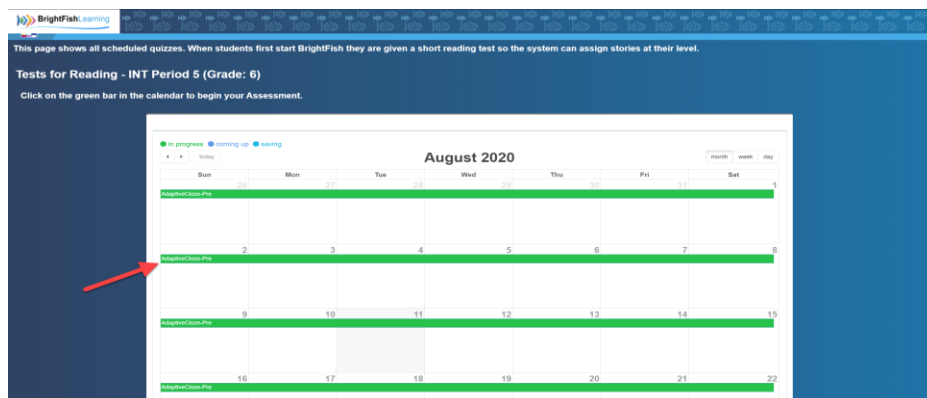

Once students complete the midyear or post-test, the results are automatically scored and available in the Test Results report and the Gains report, which displays the level changes from the pre-test to the midyear or post-test. Teachers can use the midyear or post test data with activity scores to determine whether to adjust student levels – either up or down.

Students will follow this four-step process to complete their midyear or post-test assignments.

Step 1: To take the test, students will click on the New Quiz! icon on their dashboard.

Step 2: Students will see a calendar with a green bar, which represents the open testing window. Click anywhere on the green bar to begin working on the test.

TAKING THE MIDEAR AND POST TEST

Trapdoor

As her fingertips tripped lightly across the surface of the centuries-old stone, she held her breath. She listened intently for something to hear or move. If she could open the trapdoor her quest would finally be over . She sucked in her stomach and her muscles taut. She tried with her might to prevent even the hair on her head from dancing the dank air that swirled from corner of the abandoned . The map that had led her was discolored and poorly drawn. She still remember the day it had innocently at her feet after falling the pages of an ancient text. had drawn her to the emerald-green perched high on the top shelf, bright under layers of dust. She tentatively held back its precise, painstakingly made folds. she had laid eyes on the gossamer-thin with tattered edges, she could of nothing else. Now here she Just a few meters of stone between her and the mesmerizing X. her searching fingers finally felt a panel shudder, she gasped for air under the grip of a cold, menacing hand.

Step 3: Students will choose an answer response from each dropdown menu. Once complete, they should select the green “Submit answers” button at the top to move on to the next passage.

Step 4: Submit test as final: When prompted, students will submit their test as final, which will take them back to the home screen. If students save and exit the test without submitting it as final, all work will be saved. They will click on the Quizzes tile the next time they log in to finish the test.

Once students have finished the test, the Stories tile will reopen and they can continue with their assigned training stream.
